The screenshot displays the GitHub Actions interface for a repository named 'github / docs'. The top navigation bar includes links for Code, Issues (92), Pull requests (27), Discussions, Actions (selected), Projects (5), and Security (21). The 'Actions' tab is active, showing a list of workflows under 'All workflows'. The workflow '.github/workflows/greet-everyone.yml' is selected, and the 'GitHub Actions Demo' job is highlighted. The 'Summary' section shows the job status as 'Success' and the total duration as '17s'. The 'Run details' section shows the workflow file 'github-actions-demo.yml' and the event 'push'.

The screenshot shows the 'Explore-GitHub-Actions' job log, which succeeded 13 minutes ago. The log contains the following steps:

- > Set up job (1s)
- > Run echo "🚀 The job was automatically triggered by a push event." (0s)
- > Run echo "👏 This job is now running on a Linux server hosted by GitHub!" (0s)
- > Run echo "💬 The name of your branch is refs/heads/octocat-patch-1 and your repository is oct..." (0s)
- > Check out repository code (1s)
- > Run echo "💡 The octo-org/octo-repo repository has been cloned to the runner." (0s)
- > Run echo "💻 The workflow is now ready to test your code on the runner." (0s)

Actions secrets and variables

New repository secret

Secrets and variables allow you to manage reusable configuration data. Secrets are encrypted and are used for sensitive data. Learn more about encrypted secrets. Variables are shown as plain text and are used for non-sensitive data. Learn more about variables.

Anyone with collaborator access to this repository can use these secrets and variables for actions. They are not passed to workflows that are triggered by a pull request from a fork.
